

RELIEF HAS LEGISLATURE IN DEADLOCK

Can't Agree on Bond Issue or New Taxing Set-ups

Springfield, Ill., April 28.—(AP)—Both sides adamant the house factions debating Illinois' relief crisis made little headway today as the session dissolved into a closed session of leaders with Gov. Horner.

The conference was held in Speaker John Devine's office and after an hour of talking between the governor, Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski, leader of the Chicago Democrats, and Devine, the meeting was abandoned until 2 P. M.

Horner and Devine were silent when they emerged from the first conference, but Adamowski declared the governor had tried unsuccessfully to convince him his bill to appropriate $6,000,000 for relief in May and June should not pass.

"He told me that the state absolutely had no money to pay for the appropriation," Adamowski said. "However, I am going to press for passage of my bill."

Urged Billman Plan
The Chicagoan said the governor urged him to support the Billman plan of financing relief through 102 new taxing districts co-extensive with the counties, but said he refused.

The proposal for the new taxing units, sponsored by Rep. Warren E. Brockhouse, Jacksonville Democrat, were advanced to second reading today in the lower chamber without opposition.

A resolution offered at the brief morning session asked the federal security board to rule on the Illinois old age assistance act while the state assembly was still in session. It was adopted and sent to the senate. It was sponsored by C. J. Jenkins, Chicago Republican.

Seek Income Tax
Another resolution, introduced by Rep. Dan Dinnien, Decatur Republican, called for inclusion by the governor in a call for another special session the subject of a state income tax.

Attorney General Otto Kerner was asked to rule whether it was within the call of the present session.

The house then recessed until 8 P. M. tonight. Before it quit the members were berated by Republican leaders for the long drawn out session and warned that they would refuse "to come down here week after week and do nothing."

Republicans For Stop-Gap
Republicans joined Chicago Democrats in insisting that the state treasury, despite Horner's warning that a deficit impends, should be tapped for another general fund appropriation so that relief stations can be kept open until July 1.

With sentiment divided and a $50,000,000 bond issue being discussed, prospects were dim for the Horner-endorsed Billman plan to create a relief district in each county with power to levy 30-cent taxes and issue bonds.

Adamowski, Democratic floor leader, was ready to press for house passage of his $6,000,000 appropriation bill, which requires the two-thirds majority of 102 votes.

It survived two tests last night. Rep. F. W. Lewis, Robinson Democrat, tried to kill the appropriation by striking the emergency clause but was defeated, 17 to 66. An effort to cut the appropriation to $4,000,000 was rejected.

Warns of Deficit
The governor declared when the Billman plan was first broached last week that the state faces a quarter million dollar deficit by July 1 even if additional funds are not voted for relief.

Republicans joined with Chicago Democrats in insisting that funds are available. L. M. Green of Rockford and Richard J. Lyons of Libertyville revived the Democratic campaign charges of payroll padding and declared that the Horner administration could finance relief by reducing the number of state employees.

The debate turned to politics, with Lyons predicting the election of C. Wayland Brooks, Republican nominee for governor.

Horner Denounced
Declaring that state taxes are too heavy at present, the Republicans also denounced the governor for his veto of the 1935 Lantz bills, which would have required Chicago to make pauper levies.

The Billman plan was introduced last night by Rep. Brockhouse, Concord Democrat lame duck. Adamowski suggested a $30,000,000.

Disappearance of Wife of Rich Former Massachusetts Senator Mystery; May Have Drowned Self

New York, April 28.—(AP)—Conflicting stories of a supposed mid-night leap from the liner Georgic at sea April 20 baffled searchers today for the talented Mrs. Hazel Archibald Draper, mysteriously missing daughter-in-law of a former governor of Massachusetts.

The ship arrived in Cohn, Ireland, late last night, but did not report a drowning. New York police had coupled her disappearance with unverified reports from the Cunard-White Star liner of a woman's leap about 150 miles out from New York.

Mrs. Draper, 42, wife of wealthy former state senator in Massachusetts, dropped from sight after leaving a Katonah, N. Y., sanitarium on April 15.

AMENDMENTS REMOVE LAG IN TAX BILL

Make Dividend Year Same As Taxable Year, Is Plan

Washington, April 28.—(AP)—The House today gave tentative approval to the heart of the new tax bill—a system of rates to apply to corporation incomes graduated according to proportions of earnings withheld from distribution to stockholders.

The first change to be voted, designed to give more favorable treatment to corporations with deficits, was accepted by a voice vote, without a single negative vote.

Proposed by Chairman Samuel B. Hill (D-Wash.) of the Ways and Means tax subcommittee, it would reduce from 22½ to 15 per cent the rate corporations would pay on portions of their income needed to meet deficits.

The full committee, just before the House assembled, had authorized Hill to offer the amendment. He was instructed, also, to submit an amendment intended to wipe out a $100,000,000 lag in revenue in the first year of the bill's operation. That too, was accepted on a voice vote.

"Simple Proposition"
Hill said the amendment would be a "simple proposition" of making the dividend year the same as the taxable year for corporations.

The decision was reached as the House began the last minutes of general debate on the tax program and prepared to consider amendments.

As now written, the bill, which was estimated to raise $803,000,000 would permit a lag by reason of the fact that corporation dividends paid out of 1936 income in part might be declared in the first two and a half months of 1937 and not taxed in the hands of stockholders until they filed income tax returns in 1938.

The amendment, Hill said, will in effect, require corporations to anticipate last quarter earnings and declare out dividends during the last quarter without actual figures on income for the period.

Tax Credits Proposed
But, he explained, if dividends should exceed earnings, a corporation could obtain tax credits in the next year, or the one thereafter, for the excess.

A billion dollar substitute for the administration's $803,000,000 tax bill was being drafted today by Senator King of Utah, Democratic member of the Senate finance committee.

A critic of the Roosevelt program for revising corporation taxes, King would substitute for it a bill designed to raise $1,000,000,000 by increasing the rates in the present income and corporation tax structures.

As King worked on the plan, the House gathered again to debate the bill, with leaders seeking to pass it before the end of the week.

Brisk Battle Monday
Yesterday saw a brisk battle over it. For example, Rep. Snell (R-N. Y.) minority leader, opposed what he called "new taxes on our people to further encourage this shameful extravagance of political boondoggling" while Rep. Fuller (D-Ark.) replied that criticism of the bill "is the same old story of entrenched wealth seeking to avoid taxation."

Last night Republicans in the House decided to concentrate their opposition to the bill in a virtual mass vote against it when the roll call comes. No organized effort to amend it is planned.

About 55 Republicans discussed the bill in a two-hour conference.

Secret Is Out

Washington, April 28.—(AP)—The secret of the Capital's great rose-growing mystery is out. While rose fanciers raged at unseasonably cold weather and blamed a flowerless spring on it, neighbors noticed a yard full of blooms at A. D. Hayworth's.

"How did you do it?" they asked admiringly.

Hayworth just smiled modestly, and kept his secret.

Yesterday he neglected to lock the back gate. A neighbor who could not stand the suspense crept in for a close inspection. He found that all of the blooms were artificial and tied to the bushes.

POPULAR DIXON YOUTH ATTEMPTS OWN LIFE TODAY

Donald Worley Shoots Self in Head at His Home This Morn

Donald Worley, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Worley, 313 Sixth street, fired a 22 caliber bullet into his left temple at the home this morning about 7:30 o'clock. The missile passed through his head, severing the optic nerve, attending physicians stated. He was rushed to the Katherine Shaw Bethel hospital in an ambulance this afternoon, reports were to the effect that his condition was considered very critical with little hope for recovery.

Donald, a popular young man, had arisen at the customary hour this morning and appeared to members of his family as being in his usual health and spirits. He partook of his breakfast, then went to his room to prepare to go to his work. Members of the family soon heard the report of the rifle and going to his room, found his stretched across the bed, bleeding from both temples and the eyes. He apparently suffered a sudden mental collapse after going to his room.

Reports from the hospital indicated that the small bullet had passed through his head from the left to the right temple. He had not threatened taking his own life to members of his family and appeared bright and cheerful when he joined them at the breakfast table shortly after 7 o'clock this morning.

Milk Consumers are Warned by Director of Illinois Board

Springfield, Ill., April 28.—(AP)—Illinois consumers of milk today were warned by state Health Director Frank J. Jirka to guard against contaminated milk supplies during the summer months.

The director said that in the past year three outbreaks of typhoid and one of scarlet fever were due to contaminated, unpasteurized milk. He stated that 436 downstate dealers have applied for certificates permitting the sale of pasteurized milk but several thousand dealers expect to sell unpasteurized products.

Scarlet fever, with 823 new cases, and pneumonia, with 556, increased sharply the past week, the director said, adding that he believed the reversal in trend so late in the season marked the rise as only temporary. Twenty-two new cases of epidemic meningitis were reported and syphilis was declared to be about 15 per cent above last year.

Supposed Dixonite Nabbed in Sterling

Marvin Ellis, who gave Round Grove as his home, but is said to be a resident of Dixon, was arrested twice in Sterling at an early hour Sunday morning. About midnight a member of the police department attempted to halt Ellis who was reported to be speeding through the city at a 50 mile an hour clip. The officer failed to halt the car until it had passed the city limits and when he began issuing the ticket, Ellis sped away after an argument and eluded the officer, driving back through Sterling.

About 12:30 Sunday morning police succeeded in halting the speeder a second time and took him to the police station where he was locked up. About 11 o'clock Sunday he was released to report next Saturday morning to answer to a speeding charge.

Indiana Officer Believed Victim of Four Fugitives from Carlinville, Ill. Jail

Policeman is Killed When He Attempts to Arrest Men

BULLETIN

Huntington, Ind., April 28.—(AP)—Acting upon information that three men were speeding across northern Indiana in a car without license plates state and local authorities established a blockade and captured the trio near this city shortly before noon today. They were brought here for questioning concerning their possible connection with the killing of an Indianapolis police officer.

Officers said the men, traveling in a battered sedan, sped past a blockade but their car was halted when a police machine drew alongside and officers covered the men with guns.

The men gave their names as Fred Hillen, 25, of Detroit, John Stanley, 38, of San Jose, Calif., and John Schroeder, 41, of Dayton, Ohio.

Hillen told police he was touring and had picked up Stanley and Schroeder who were hitch-hiking. The three men were held pending further inquiry. Capt. Matt Leach of the state police ordered their finger prints sent to Washington for scrutiny by the department of justice.

Indianapolis, April 28.—(AP)—Four men, suspected of a jewelry store robbery at Lima, O., and also thought to be the men who escaped from a Carlinville, Ill., jail last week, were sought by Indiana officers today after they killed Police Sergeant Richard Rivers of Indianapolis in a gun battle last night.

Rivers was shot down as he and two patrolmen started into a doctor's home to question the men who had gone there seeking medical aid for a wounded companion.

The gunmen opened fire through a screen door, raced to their automobile and backed for more than a block while keeping up a steady exchange of shots with the police. They whipped their automobile into a side street and then fled south.

State police blockades were thrown up on all highways leading from Indianapolis but the bandits escaped.

Indianapolis police were notified early in the evening by Dr. E. E. Rose that some men had been to his office with a companion who said he had been shot by the husband of a woman to whom he had been attentive.

Wife Called Police
They left but returned about 9 o'clock. While three of them tried to persuade the doctor to come out to the car, Mrs. Rose, the doctor's wife, ran to a nearby telephone and called police. When the officers arrived the gun-fight started.

There were five men in the holdup at Lima yesterday and police there believed they wounded one of the men.

When word of the shooting here was broadcast last night the sheriff at Carlinville, Ill., called and said the descriptions of the men involved tallied with those of the five who broke out of jail there. Indiana officers expressed the belief that the men who escaped from the Carlinville jail may have participated in the Lima robbery and then doubled back to Indianapolis.

Cars Found Burned

Two cars believed by police to have been used by the gunmen were found destroyed by fire early today.

State police summoned by a farmer found the flaming ruins of the two cars. A coal oil can was found near one of the machines and officers said it was apparent both cars had been set afire.

Sgt. Jack O'Neill of the state police said one of the burned cars was found about 10 miles west of here. The other was found near Danville, Ind., about 30 miles west.

Each car had two sets of license plates. Several bullets were found in one of the machines.

Illinois Licenses
A revolver was found in the machine believed to have been used by Sgt. Rivers' slayers.

Police said one set of license plates, issued in Illinois, bore the numbers 403-303. The other set, also issued in Illinois, was numbered 145-233.

Officers expressed the belief the cars had been burned to obliterate finger prints. They recalled several other cars had been found burned in recent months following various crimes, among them the robbery of a bank at Bloomington.

ALLEGED KIDNAPER UNDER $20,000 BONDS

Frank Donaldson is Now Prisoner in Lee Co. Jail

BULLETIN

Frank Donaldson, Peoria, charged with kidnaping and hi-jacking, after being arraigned for bond here this forenoon, was immediately whisked away in a car, heavily guarded. It was reported at noon today. It was believed that he had been removed to another county jail in this locality which Sheriff Miller considers safer than the Lee county property. Inquiry at the sheriff's office this afternoon brought the information that Donaldson was not held here, but Sheriff Miller refused to disclose his whereabouts.

Federal department of justice agents returned to Dixon this morning to renew their investigation into the double charges and to complete their records of the hi-jacking charges, for which three prisoners are now held here.

Frank Donaldson, 49, of Peoria, arrested in that city one week ago today by Peoria police and Sheriff Ralph Gore of Pekin, was held under bond of $20,000 by Justice J. O. Shaulis shortly before noon today on charges of kidnaping and larceny. Donaldson was brought to Dixon at 11 o'clock today by Sheriff Ward Miller and Chief Deputy Gilbert Finch from the Whiteside county jail at Morrison, where he had been a prisoner since last Wednesday morning, when he was removed from the Tazewell county jail under a heavy guard. His whereabouts have been known only by the sheriff's forces of Lee and Whiteside counties until today.

Following receipt of word of his arrest, Sheriff Miller arranged with Sheriff Art Hamilton of Whiteside county to take the prisoner to Morrison and lodge him in the Whiteside county jail until further investigation into the kidnaping and hi-jacking could be extended. Donaldson has been positively identified, it was stated today by Sheriff Miller, by George Amburst, his wife and William Mess, Clinton, Iowa, farmer, who with his truck driver, John Franzen, were halted about 10 o'clock at night, Sunday, April 19 just east of Franklin Grove on the Lincoln Highway, the two men being kidnaped and forced to lie in the tonneau of the hi-jacker's car while their truck load of 55 hogs were taken. Donaldson was said to have acted as guard in the kidnap car and to have beaten the 60-year-old Mess over the head several times.

Hearing's Continued

Arraigned before Justice Shaulis this morning, bond of $15,000 was set on the kidnap charge and $5,000 on the larceny charge. The preliminary hearing was continued until May 8, and Donaldson, handcuffed and with four officers guarding him, was taken to the Lee county jail. Since his arrest several Illinois attorneys have been attempting to locate him without success. It was hinted today that other charges might be filed against the Peorian, who was to have appeared in the Federal district court Wednesday morning to be taken to Port Leavenworth penitentiary to begin serving a ten year sentence. He is at present at liberty under bonds of $15,000, said to be signed by Peoria friends indicated that the bonds would be ordered forfeited in the event Donaldson did not appear in court tomorrow.

Another Arrest Made

Chief Deputy Sheriff Gilbert Finch accompanied by two other deputies went to Havana, Ill., in Mason county last evening, where Lester Roof was placed under arrest on a warrant charging him with concealing and possessing stolen property. Deputy sheriffs from Lee, Tazewell and Mason counties last Wednesday afternoon found 26 of Mess' hogs on the Roof farm, one-half mile south of the village of Bishop in Mason county. Roof was brought to the Lee county jail at an early hour this morning and was to be arraigned before Justice Shaulis this afternoon and his bond fixed.

Four men, said to have been implicated in the kidnaping and hi-jacking of the shipment of hogs valued at $1,600, are now in custody in the Lee county jail. Beside Donaldson and Roof, George Amburst, a brother-in-law of Roof, and Ignatz Vidic of Pekin, are in custody, while central Illinois and Federal department of justice agents are conducting a wide search for two others, alleged to have participated in the kidnaping.

Amburst's wife visited her husband.

Georgia Negro Taken From Jail, Tied to Tree and Filled With Shot as Assault Trial Nears

Royston, Ga., April 28.—(AP)—Lint Shaw, burly negro farmer once saved from lynching through the intervention of National Guardsmen, broke into Royston's one-story jail about midnight, cornered Night Chief of Police W. A. Dickerson and smashed a lock on the prisoner's cell.

"I couldn't see exactly what happened," Dickerson said. "They just told me they wanted the negro. He didn't say a word when they dragged him out."

Piowline, cotton ropes used for guiding work animals in the fields, were cut up to tie the negro to the tree.

The jail here was the third in which Shaw had been held since he was identified by the girls as the man who pursued them with a knife and threw one into a gulley. The assailant was frightened away by their screams.

BITTER WISDOM

By Joseph Fort Newton

ARE you fond of proverbs, good reader? If so, certainly the new Oxford Dictionary of English Proverbs will be a joy. It gathers up the old sayings of many ages, brief bits of human life.

Some folk sniff at proverbs as vulgar, or else because their wisdom is of the lowest and cheapest sort. My quarrel with them is not because they are rough but because they are sour.

Pithy, picturesque, a proverb, it has been said, is the wisdom of many coined by the wit of one. It sums up some aspect of life in a swift salty saying, which sticks in the mind and stings.

But why is the wisdom of proverbs so often bitter and so seldom happy? Proverbs are to literature what folk songs are to music; but most of our folk songs are happy, haunting and full of joy.

But the wit that is boiled down in proverbs is bitter, biting. For example, more proverbs have been made about marriage than on any other two subjects. Here are three, new to me, and they hurt:

"Never marry a widow unless her first husband was hanged." "Keep your eyes wide open before marriage, and half-shut afterwards." "Next to no wife, a good wife is best."

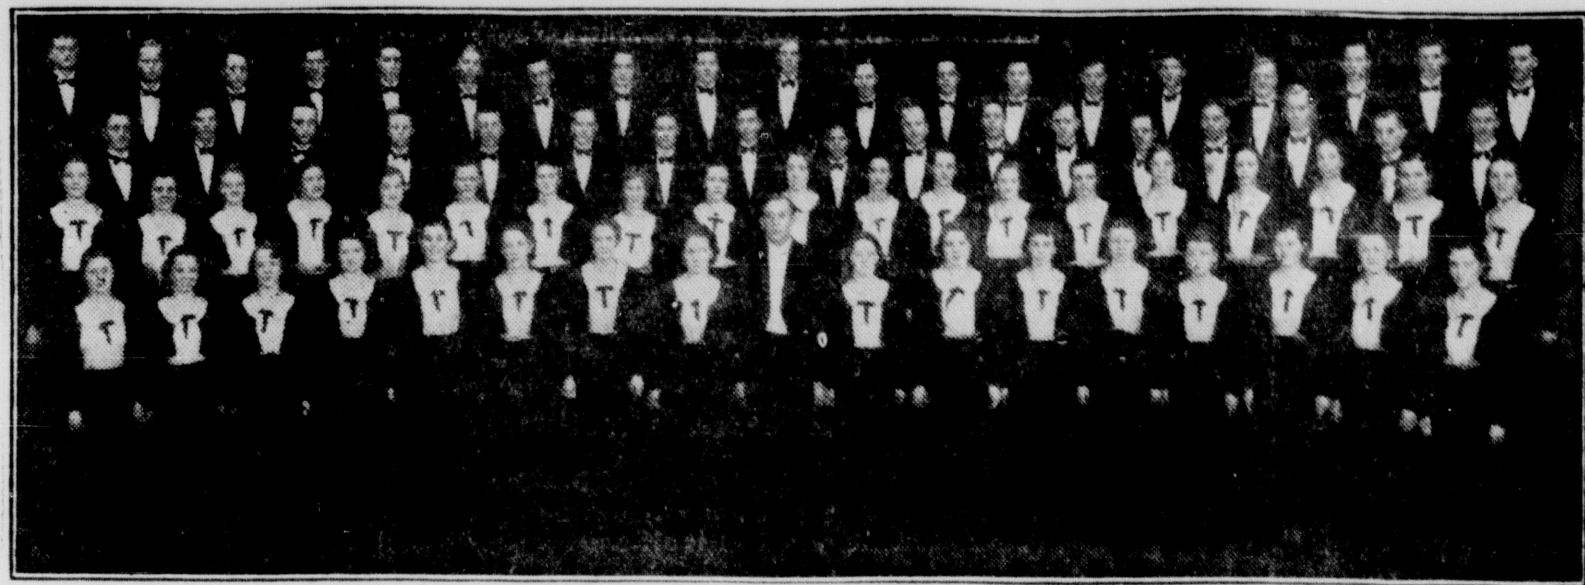

Here is a gem of brighter ray, "The sandal tree perfumes the axe that fells it," a saying which is a sermon. Here is another that fascinates me, "Many would be cowards if they had courage enough."

Courage for what? To own up that they are cowards? Or to face results? Maybe the answer is in this one, "He who rides a tiger can never dismount." Else the tiger will eat him up on the spot.

About the danger of evil friends this is final, "Keep not ill men company, lest you add to the number." Or this nugget, "The chains of habit are too small to be felt until they are too strong to be broken."

Yet my question is still unanswered—why not make a few happy

One of my college memories is the May Morning Breakfast, an annual money making Y. W. C. A. event held on the Saturday morning nearest to May first. A good simple breakfast was served from 7:30 until 9 a. m. and friends and students attended in such numbers that the occasion was always a financial success. The idea can be used for any type of school or church organization when special money is required. Serve good food in attractive manner, either at small tables, long tables or cafeteria style. We served at daintily appointed tables seating eight. Girls in Spring wash dresses—and gayly colored aprons did the serving.

RE-EMPLOYMENT IS AT ISSUE

Some newspapers are criticized for showing Roosevelt economic policies in their unfavorable aspects while financial pages are disclosing increased business and rising prices.

Let the American Federation of Labor answer. Under a Washington date line, The Associated Press said:
"As officials sought to figure out the unemployment and relief needs, the American Federation of Labor issued a statement dealing with the subject. It said the country was 'on the threshold of the next industrial boom,' with business showing an upswing during April, and many observers feeling that the rising tide is 'becoming irresistible'."

"But despite all gains, it said, the unemployed number 12 millions and 'reemployment has fallen behind rising business'."

Roosevelt was elected on an appeal to the unemployed. He was rebuked by President Hoover for playing politics with human misery.

The drought removed the farm surpluses and made high farm prices, 7 percent of the increases being fixed by economists as due to the AAA.

The dollar measure was reduced and stock prices have taken note of the change in the yardstick to about 20 inches to the yard.

Some shots in the arm have been given the industries that benefit from expenditure of 5 billions of dollars for 1936 campaign purposes.

Yet there are 12 million unemployed persons, the American Federation of Labor says.

That was the issue on which Roosevelt was elected and after more than three years we have the same old issue staring us in the face.

It is likely to be talked about and written about until it disappears.

"THE NORRIS NONSENSE"

Under the heading, The Norris Nonsense, the Alton Telegraph deals with the proposal of Senator Norris of Nebraska to set up a Mississippi river authority, the pretext being the control of floods and the creation of electric energy. It says that on those two points the United States engineers have asserted that nothing is gained by the dams now being constructed for the 9-foot channel.

Alton's city government and public spirited citizens recently had occasion to make a survey of its situation in relation to electric current production, consumption, and rates. The survey included possibilities that lay in power obtained from the Mississippi river, as the government was constructing there one of its dams to promote navigation.

The editor of the Alton Telegraph was one of the members of the commission that surveyed conditions, and we are disposed to adopt his findings as authoritative information.

"No provision is being made in any of the dams for generating electric energy," he says. "No claim is made by informed engineers that the dams can be of any service whatever in controlling floods. Such claims set up under the Norris project are sheer nonsense, if not absolutely, wilfully, and deliberately untruthful."

"The slope of the Mississippi is not fast enough, the lands abutting it are low and too subject to overflow to admit of the building of power dams to a height afforded sufficient 'head' of a constancy such as might justify hope of generating power that would be serviceable the year round."

"When Alton sought to include a power project in the federal dam in course of construction here, absolute willingness of the government to approve such a project was indicated, but difficulties were pointed out.
The average stage of the river is such that for three months every year there could be no power 'head' possible. To supply electric energy in that period a power plant would have to be kept as a standby with sufficient capacity to take up the electric energy load when the river would drop it, due to the river's 'head' having been eliminated by flood stages."

"That settles the power question. It also settles the flood control nonsense. If the dams are constructed to maintain a 9-foot channel, the pools behind the dams must be kept full or the whole enterprise is a fake. If the pools are kept full, rising water in the river coming down stream would find the dams already impounding all the water they could hold so the additional water must go on over, flooding the shores as before. The maximum difference between highest and lowest stages in the Mississippi is about thirty-three feet. To do any flood controlling it would call for immensely higher dams than are being built, and that would be true even more so if the river is to provide a supply of electric energy at the dams."

REVOLUTIONISTS, OLD AND NEW

Robert Quillen, who writes smart paragraphs, sets forth the following definitions:

"Old style revolutionist: 'Let us make man free.'
New style revolutionist: 'Let us crack some heads.'"

Isn't that about the way it has been? Through the centuries the revolutionists have been striving to make man free, and they reached the height of orderly freedom with the American Revolution and the institution of the American republic with its protections of the rights of the individual against oppression by a majority or by an autocracy.

Subsequent revolutions have been with a view to binding men and forcing them to do the bidding of the majority, no matter how tyrannical the ruling majority may be. Such majorities speak through small autocracies, reduced substantially to dictatorships.

When revolutionary aims are charged against disorderly groups in this country, some of them undertake to compare themselves with the patriots who separated this country from the monarchical system of Europe. Mr.
Quillen in few words shows the difference.

Those in this country having revolutionary aims put themselves in the midst of every incipient disorder and make it as great a disorder as possible. In other words they set about cracking heads.

Having come to the apex of freedom for man, our revolutionary groups now are undertaking to turn us back to dictatorships, to bind men down, put them under the yoke, "for their own good" always.

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

Brave Scouty, in the hope he'd find some gold, was glad to stay behind while Coppy ran to see the old prospector with his news. He'd seen the nugget Coppy found, and thought 'twas gold out of the ground. Thought he, 'I'll keep on sifting sand. I have no time to lose.' Then Coppy rushed up to his side and, in a moment, loudly cried, "My nugget was a false alarm. It was not gold, at all. 'I think it's foolish to stay here, because 'twill do no good, I fear. I'd like to have a bit of fun. I wish we had a ball.'"

"I saw one in our old friend's hut. I'd run right back and get it, but I hate to disappoint him," answered Scouty, with a frown. "For 'bout an hour we'll try some more to get what we came down here for. We'll stick right to this stream, but move a little farther down."

While they were moving on, the two fair Tiny girls came up. "Well, we have had tough luck."

"But, don't let it make you stop. 'We're going to search. 'Twill be a thrill, as long as we have time to kill. Thus far, our expedition has been nothing but a flop.'"

Just then some little men came near and one cried out, "Well, look who's here! We know that you are Timmymites. Say, can we lend a hand?"

"The old prospector told us you were seeking gold. That's fine to do. 'Oh, tell us where to look,' said Goldy. "That would be just grand."

"Well, never mind the streams nearby," one man replied. "Instead, just try your luck around the little hills. Here, take this miner's light."

"Oh, thanks," said Dotty. "You are nice, and we will follow your advice. The lamp will come in handy. If we search into the night."

Washington Parade

By CARLISLE BARGERSON

Washington. — Senators Hugo Black and Schwelmbach, the New Deal's smearers extraordinary, are burning up because there is one anti-New Deal activity which, ponder as they might, they can't figure out a way to smear. This is the weekly radio program being presented by the DuPonts. Apparently these gentlemen haven't gotten any results from their contributions to every Tom, Dick and Harry who had an idea of how to defeat the New Deal but their radio program is direct and effective.

It is portraying the romance of successful Americans, just that and nothing more. For example, one week there was the story of Benjamin Franklin, how he started off with nothing and rose to immortality. Then there was the story of the late Cyrus H. K. Curtis, who walked into Philadelphia and came to be one of the country's outstanding magazine and newspaper publishers. The lives of these men are re-enacted, step by step. The purpose of the program is to re-establish faith in the country as a land of opportunity. This is just about as insidious an attack as one could make against the New Deal.

Their strength lies in destroying all faith in the "old order" and of giving the people a feeling of futility about life in general. Students of propaganda here have long realized the need of such work as the DuPonts are doing. It is what the propagandists call the "constructive approach against the New Deal."

Black and Schwelmbach and the other New Dealers realize how effective the program is. But how in the dickens they can smear it is something else. They can't go out and attack Benjamin Franklin and show him up as a bum which they would have to do to make any complaint against the radio skits. If they were to call the DuPonts before them and ask why they were presenting such a program, the DuPonts would only have to say "Why surely you don't object to you? You can't object to our presenting the life stories of the country's outstanding men."

The point is they do object. But they couldn't admit it. They were quite willing to tear down the confidence we had in bankers and our captains of industry. But to go all the way back and destroy Benjamin Franklin is a step they are

MT. MORRIS

By Pauline Yoe

Mount Morris—At a conference between Capt. Howard C. Bronson of Kable Brothers 129th Infantry Band and village board members Tuesday evening, plans were outlined for the coming outdoor concert season, the schedule calling for the opening concert on Saturday, June 6.

Owing to the lowering in assessment valuations tax receipts out of which the band is supported have fallen off in the past several years, necessitating a curtailment from the regular twelve or thirteen concert season, to one of nine concerts for this summer. Inasmuch as the Kable Brothers company has withdrawn all financial support, this shortening of the season is made necessary, if the high standard of the program is to be maintained. Capt. Bronson pointed out to the board members.

However, a plan was finally reached whereby the 129th Infantry band is to give nine concerts, while other performances by the famous Salvation Army Staff band of Chicago the equally well known Mooseheart Boys' band, and the Mount Morris School band will serve to extend the summer concert season to its usual length, from June 6 to August 29, with but a single interruption during the week of July 4.

one Scoutmaster, and five committeemen, continuing with the sponsorship of the Kiwanis club.

After serving on the local troop committee for five years, most of the time as chairman, Lynn Elliott has been promoted to the position of field commissioner, in which capacity he will assist County Commissioner D. Cameron Findlay. Russell Colburn, who has served as scoutmaster for several years, is planning to attend college this fall, and so did not re-register, but he will assist the new Scoutmaster during the summer months.

The new Scoutmaster is Merle Hawbecker, eighth grade teacher in the local grade school. Although not a trained scout, Hawbecker's close affiliation with boys and his sincere interest in youth, should qualify him admirably for this important position.

Under the guidance of the Kiwanis club, the sponsoring agency, the following troop committee is announced: Dr. M. S. Dumont, with Harold Patterson, S. E. Avey, H. E. Keller and Leslie A. Watt.

Troop meetings are being resumed in the Scout Cabin on Thursday evenings. Because of the extreme cold and snow of the past winter, it was necessary to abandon meetings in the cabin, and hold them in the grade school building. A revived interest is being shown in the scout organization by parents in the community, and it will not be long before the troop is back to its old time strength.

Following an uncontested election in which Harry Baker and J. Walk-

Gangster Slated as State's Star Witness in Kidnap Trial

Already awaiting sentence in the Bremer kidnaping case and indicted again in the William A. Hamm, Jr., abduction, Byron Bolton, gangster who turned state's evidence, is shown above, between two U. S. agents as they arrived at the federal building in St. Paul, Minn. Bolton appeared before the grand jury, which returned true bills against seven suspects. He is expected to be the star witness for the government in the coming trial.

Mount Morris Community High School Board, the members met to organize for the current year, and to hire teachers.

O. A. Hanke was re-elected president of the board, and J. Walker Robbins was continued as secretary, while Ira R. Hendrickson, principal, was again elected as recording secretary.

Committee appointments were made by President Hanke as follows: teachers, Robbins and Thomas; buildings and grounds, Cratty and Baker; athletic committee, Robbins and Cratty.

Small salary increases were offered to all the teachers on the present staff, and it is believed that all of them will return for another year.

Harriet Rees, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Rees, is named among the students offered gradu-

Princeton--Mr. and Mrs. Henry Glidermaster were hosts to their bridge club last Saturday evening at their home, when three tables were in play. The high score was made by Mrs. J. F. Highfield. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lowry were guests of the club. The group will be entertained at its next meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fingfield, though the date is not set.

Dinner at Depue
Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Roe and Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Gibbs will present at a seven o'clock dinner to be given Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Riede at Depue.

COUNTRY CLUB IS SCENE OF ATTRACTIVE PARTIES AS SEASON OPENS HERE

Bureau Valley Country Club is high in favor as a place of entertainment these days as plans are made for the many parties which will be the accompaniment of the spring and early summer season. The Sunday dinners at the club always are well attended, and the last week-end proved no exception to the rule, as 75 guests were enrolled for the Sunday dinner, 18 tables being set, some for large parties and many for smaller ones.

A birthday party in honor of the host was in progress at the table of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Zearing, where covers were laid for 10 guests, while nine were served at the table of Mr. and Mrs. Con Brown of Wyand, among them being Senator and Mrs. Gunning and their son, Hobart.

REPUBLICAN CENTRAL COMMITTEE OF COUNTY ELECTS ITS OFFICERS

The Bureau County Republican Central Committee assembled at the Circuit Court room Monday morning, and L. A. Zearing was elected temporary chairman, with Carey R. Johnson as temporary secretary. A permanent organization was then elected as follows: Dr. W. C. Steele, Depue, chairman; Carey R. Johnson, secretary, and Ray Brewer, Walnut, treasurer.

By a resolution the committee divided the county into nine districts, each to have its own organization, and the chairman of each district organization to be a vice-chairman of the county central committee except in the district from which the elected officers were chosen. The vice-chairmen of the districts are as follows: M. L. Hurless, LaMoille; Orville VanOrmer, Manlius; H. S. Zink, Buda; A. J. Weller, Bureau; Guy Vennum, Asipie; and John Perino, Hall.

Upon a motion a committee consisting of L. A. Zearing, Guy Vennum, and John Heathcock were appointed to select delegates and alternates to the Republican state convention which will be held May 22 in Peoria. They were chosen as follows: William Wimble, George Stamberger, J. F. Hamilton, J. H. Smith, E. L. Turnbull, Fred Renick, Forrest Mercer, Joe Ziton, M. L. Hurless, F. Gresell, C. Ruff, O. Pierson, R. Brewer, F. Ackeborg, M. Ryan, C. Conley, A. J. Weller, J. Perino, P. Perona, L. Ballerine, J. Balzerine, P. Palletti, C. Savio, J. Heathcock, W. C. Steele, L. A. Zearing, C. W. Boyden, C. R. Johnson, C. Neiman, H. L. Wood, H. S. Zink, Guy Vennum, W. Hanley, A. E. Stetson, Dr. Willet, W. Monier, Al Vogt, Ray Barto, Claude Brown, H. U. Bailey, George Fox, L. Stevens, William W. Wilson, Senator Gunning, Theodore Wilson, and Joseph Peterson.

Following these appointments adjournment was had for luncheon at the Hotel Clark.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Zearing entertained a party of 14 at their table, while Mrs. Clem Kitterman had as her guests Deacon George Franklin and Deacon Kenneth Gearhart of Nashotah, Wis. who were Princeton visitors on Sunday.

Places were laid for six guests at the table of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Tedrow, and Dr. and Mrs. O. J. Flint entertained Mrs. Flint's sister, the Princess of Braganza, at dinner.

Other events which are taking place at the club this week include the regular meeting of the Monday evening bridge club, in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kinnan, preceded by a dinner, as well as the men's bridge game which will be held on Wednesday evening, following a dinner.

The popularity of the club as a dancing rendezvous is made evident by the reservations which have been made for the Princeton Junior Women's club dance to take place on Friday evening, May 1 and the Junior Women of Spring Valley, who will hold their annual dance at the club on Saturday evening, June 6.

On Friday evening, May 8, the annual Junior and Senior High School banquet of Princeton will be held at the club, when it is expected that 135 guests will attend. Other school affairs include the Buda Junior-Senior banquet, to take place on Saturday evening, May 9, with 75 guests and a similar event for the Tiskilwa high school to be held Tuesday evening, May 12, reservations being made for nearly 75.

The opening party at the club, for which plans are as yet uncertain, will be under the management of the club officers and the entertainment committee. May 14 has been set as the date for this event.

Clinic Next Week
Dr. Hugh E. Cooper will be the clinician for the next crippled children's clinic to be conducted in the basement of the Princeton hospital on Park avenue, east, Thursday, May 7, from 8 to 12 o'clock in the forenoon. Appointments may be made through the family physician or the directing nurse, Mrs. C. Olson. New patients are requested to see their family physician first and be referred to the clinic by him.

LEE FARMERS CAN ARRANGE CROPS PLANS

Need Not Await The Soil-Depleting Base to Start

Farmers in Lee County need not delay until they get notice of their soil-depleting base before shaping up their cropping plans for this year, to qualify for the maximum payments under the new soil conservation program, according to Farm Adviser C. E. Yale.

Notice of their soil-depleting base will be sent to all farmers in the county within the near future, but in the meantime it will pay them to do a little figuring, he pointed out.

First, a farmer should add up the acreage of corn, oats, wheat and other soil-depleting crops he had in 1935. This may not be his official soil-depleting base, but for the average it will be fairly close.

Fifteen per cent of this soil-depleting acreage should then be diverted to soil-conserving crops. These can be legumes or they can be grasses seeded with a nurse crop, the nurse crop to be clipped or pastured before grain is formed. The nurse crop cannot be cut for hay or grain on land for which the class 1, soil-conserving payments are desired.

With the season as late as it is, farmers may have to make special provisions for the 15 per cent of their soil-depleting acreage which they devote to soil conservation in 1936. A farmer who already has seeded down a big acreage of small grain to soil-conserving crops need only pasture or clip enough of these acres to qualify for his 15 per cent. The farmer without enough soil-conserving crops still has time to put in legumes alone or grass with a nurse crop, using about half the normal rate of seeding for the nurse crop. Seeding up to the first of May ordinarily gives good results in Illinois. He also can put in soybeans to be plowed down later for green manure.

Farmers who wish to make sure of getting the maximum class 1, soil-conserving payment might well shift a few extra acres to make certain that they have at least their 15 per cent when their soil-depleting base is announced.

A farmer cannot be paid for shifting more than 15 per cent of his soil-depleting base acreage to soil-conserving crops. Up to this limit the average class 1 payment for the country as a whole will be $10 an acre. The exact rate for this on any farm will be determined by the productivity index that is finally set for the state, the county and individual farms.

Class 2, or soil-building, payments are less important than the class 1 payment, and farmers will have until later in the season to figure on this particular part of the program. The important thing now is to get cropping systems adjusted to qualify for class 1 payments.

FRANK PRIEBE'S WEEKLY LETTER TO POULTRY RAISERS

A great many times I have said that the specialized poultry raiser, who raises Leghorns, does a better job with them than anyone can do on a general farm.

So I have suggested that you raise heavy breed chickens, which can be raised to roasting size and which lay brown eggs, because, if you do that, your products will not come in direct competition with those from commercial poultry farms.

So far the heavy breed chickens have been left entirely to the man on a general farm. Now an organization of specialized poultry farms in Washington has announced a Brown Egg Program.

We sat here and watched the commercial farmers take the broiler business and the white egg business away from us and didn't make much effort to hold it. After all, we could still produce roasting chickens and brown eggs.

Now what I want to know is whether we're going to sit quietly by and let them walk off with our brown egg business, too?

If they really decide to go after this brown egg trade, they will be skimming the cream of the prices off the market before we realize what is happening.

Improve Production Methods

It seems pretty clear to me that it's up to us to improve our production methods without any waste of time.

I don't mean that we must adopt the commercial poultryman's mass production methods.

I'm not suggesting that you never let your chickens touch the ground. I am saying that we must raise our chickens on clean ground if we want to keep them healthy and profitable. This practice is more common than it used to be but it is still far from being general.

I'm not suggesting that you should have electrical devices with which to clean your poultry houses. I am saying that shovels and scrub brushes and good disinfectants need to be used more often than they are.

I'm not suggesting that you put in any artificial refrigerating system. I am saying that eggs should be gathered three times a day; they should be cooled quickly; and they certainly should be marketed as often as sweet cream.

These practices are not a matter of expense. They are a matter of habit.

Of course, after you have produced good poultry and eggs, you should get a better price for them than the person gets who gives his flock little attention and, consequently, has produce of every ordinary quality.

The only way to get what your poultry and eggs are worth is to sell them to a produce house that grades them and pays for them according to their quality.

Sincerely yours,
Frank Pribe

SOFTBALL WILL BE INTRODUCED IN FARM LEAGUE

Farmers' Field Day Is Planned After Fall Harvest

A program of farm sports for 1936 to include county baseball and softball teams with recommendation for a state-wide Farmers' Field Day after harvest was adopted at the 12th annual meeting of the Illinois Farm Bureau Baseball League at Peoria, April 10, reports the Illinois Agriculture Association.

The directors of the League voted unanimously to set up a Soft Ball division and to invite counties not having regular baseball teams to organize local softball leagues. The program contemplates scheduling inter-county games later in the season between the best teams developed in each county.

A committee composed of Alvin O. Eckert, president of the St. Clair County Farm Bureau, chairman; Albert Heyes, president of the Peoria County Farm Bureau; and Otto Steffey, Henderson county, was appointed by President Ebb Harris of Lake county, to adopt rules for the softball division and develop plans for the Farmers' Field Day.

The opening date for inter-divisional baseball games was set for Saturday, May 23. Meetings will be held in each division shortly to organize and schedule games for the season.

Discussion of the Farmers' Field Day brought suggestions that the state champion baseball game, an inter-county softball tournament, a horseshoe pitching contest featuring the best "barnyard golfers" from each county and county Tag-o-War contests, comprise part of the program. Other features and entertainment are contemplated. Clifford Gregory of Prairie Farmer offered co-operation of his publication and radio station WLS in organizing and publicizing the event.

Officers elected for the League in 1936 were Mr. Harris, president, and Albert Heyes of Peoria county, vice president.

HORSE DECLINE RELEASES VAST FEED ACREAGE

Ten Million Fewer Horses to Feed Than in 1930

Urbana, Ill., April 28.—An area the size of the state of Illinois has been released from feed production by the 37 per cent reduction since 1930 in the horse and mule population of the United States, according to E. T. Robbins, livestock extension specialist, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

This area is approximately equal to the acreage which the new soil conservation and domestic allotment program plans to shift from soil-depleting crops to soil-building and conserving crops.

"Although farmers now have about 10,000,000 fewer horses and mules to feed today than they had 16 years ago, crop acreages have not been reduced to meet this change," Robbins said. "The new farm program, with its plan for less land in grain and more land in grass, is needed to help establish this balance."

While the numbers of other types of livestock have fluctuated violently aid irregularly from year to year, the change in the horse and mule population has been gradual. During this 16-year period, the change in horse and mule numbers has been steadily downward, but has averaged less than 3 per cent a year.

"So gradual has been the decline," says Robbins, "that few farmers realized the decreasing demand for feed and forage and have continued to contribute to surpluses of grain crops."

On Jan. 1, 1936, Illinois farmers had 739,000 horses and 119,000 mules.

English art critics ridiculed the work of American landscape painters when the latter exhibited pictures showing the brilliant colors of American autumn. The Britons believed the colors to be pure imagination, since English foliage does not change to brilliant hues in the fall.

STEEL MACHINE SHOWS UP AUTO DANGER POINTS

After demonstrating on hundreds of Illinois cars, the Safety Lane equipment now touring the state under the auspices of the various County Bureaus co-operating with the Safety Department of the Illinois Agricultural Association has turned out to be a veritable detective in ferreting out hidden flaws that often lead to serious accidents. According to C. M. Seagraves, director of the Department, the number of cars found unfit to drive on highways far exceeds those in good mechanical condition.

In a recent demonstration at Litchfield in Montgomery county, out of 213 cars tested, 127 were rejected and 86 were approved. Four cars found to be unfit went immediately to a garage, had the defect remedied, returned to the Safety Lane, were found to be fit and were approved. By far the greater number of cars showed defective brakes. In the Litchfield test, 60 were rejected for that reason. Thirteen cars had one or more headlights out, while on five the beam was not centered properly. Thirteen cars had no tail light and 48 were discovered to be without stop lights. Two had no rear view mirrors. On 19 cars the windshield wiper was found to be unsatisfactory. Five cars had horns not working.

In other counties practically the same proportion of rejections have been made for approximately the same number of reasons. In view of the fact that better than 60 per cent of auto fatalities occur on rural highways, it can be readily seen that the inferior mechanical condition of cars on country roads is in a large way responsible for this appalling total.

At present the Safety Lane equipment under the supervision of William Kilgus is in the South Central part of the state, and will continue to conduct demonstrations throughout the rest of the year.

FUTURES MARKET PERFORMS RE-ALFARM SERVICE

Chicago.—One of the leading financial publications of America, noted for sound thinking along economic lines, recently devoted its attention to commodity futures markets and to the part played by speculation in moving farm crops into the channels of consumption.

The views expressed are particularly pertinent, now that public hearings on the proposed Commodity Exchange bill are impending before the Senate Committee on Agriculture in Washington.

"Commodity futures markets," stated the editor, "perform an essential function which the producers of the commodities have, apparently never fully understood and concerning which they have always been suspicious."

"The essence of all such markets is to furnish insurance to all concerned in the processing and distribution of these things in their passage from the earth to the final consumer.

"Insurance is by its nature speculative. Consequently the speculator is an indispensable factor in these markets. It is he who furnishes the insurance to the various commodity traders. No one else can do it. It is he who assumes the risks of price fluctuations during the period that must necessarily elapse before the grain is eaten and cotton is worn."

"The speculator, as a class, actually has furnished the insurance needed at no profit to himself, the editor asserted.

"If there is anything certain it is that from the inception of the futures markets to the present day," the publication continued, "the sum total of the speculative operations which have enabled the trade to 'hedge' its risks have been conducted at a loss."

"The trade, in short, as a whole, has had its insurance for nothing and a bonus to boot. And the greater the volume of speculation, the larger has been the bonus! . . ."

English art critics ridiculed the work of American landscape painters when the latter exhibited pictures showing the brilliant colors of American autumn. The Britons believed the colors to be pure imagination, since English foliage does not change to brilliant hues in the fall.

Both male and female pigeons furnish "pigeon milk" for their young.

SOYBEAN GROWS MORE POPULAR EVERY SEASON

This year, when you take your first look at the tender soybean shoot just peeking above the earth, take off your hat and give the newcomer a bow. Kid Soybean, says the Illinois Agricultural Association, is about the most versatile youngster you have around the place. While corn may still be king, soybeans have won a definite place in the farming schemes of Illinois agriculture.

Whether you harvest soybeans or cut them for hay, the adaptability of this crop is amazing. As one farmer put it, "I don't see how my stock can eat soybean hay, it looks so bad, but they certainly go for it and thrive." On the other hand, roasted beans find their way to the tops of baked goods adding a nut like flavor, or in glassine bags in confectionery stores as a substitute for peanuts. The plastic business finds that the soybean opens up a new field in the manufacture of low cost knobs, push buttons, panels and dials. Emulsified soybean oil is competing successfully as a shortening replacing cottonseed oil in many cases. For deep and ordinary frying, soybean oil is now superior in many respects. One of these days you'll be eating soybean oil in salad dressings.

Closer to home is the use of soy oil in paints. Many a barn and home in Illinois is today brighter and cheerier because of a paint containing soyoil. The Illinois Agricultural Association with the University of Illinois pioneered the use of this type of paint. Its popularity with soybean growing farmers has led them to declare that "the whole scene changes with soyoil paints." The practicability of this type of paint has also made them more determined than ever to see that paint manufacturers incorporate soyoil into their products, especially for sale in rural sections. Experts envision the day when farmers of Illinois will refuse to paint their buildings with other than a soyoil paint. Already, a slogan among farmers, "buy our oil and we'll buy your paint," has taken hold and promises to be a popular one as the years go by.

It is estimated that there are 120,000,000 cats in the United States and that 80,000,000 are strays.

Cooperative Sells Apples Despite Great Surplus

The Illinois Fruit Growers' Exchange which was instrumental in getting the Surplus Commodity Purchases section of the AAA to buy 190 cars of Illinois surplus apples for relief distribution, has closed out practically all its storage holdings, Talmage DeFrees of Bond county, president of the Exchange, announced today.

The Exchange sold only nine cars of apples to the federal agency. It secured better prices than those offered by the government (65 to 70 cents) for the bulk of its storage supplies.

"The government purchases definitely helped the Illinois apple growers," DeFrees said, "by relieving the market of surplus supplies. While prices are low, they would be even lower with 390 cars more to force on the open market. The emergency in the storage apple deal continues and to relieve it, the Surplus Commodity Purchases section recently agreed to buy additional apples up to 200 cars."

An advisory committee appointed to work on the problem includes F. G. Wilton of the AAA, Chicago; H. W. Day, Illinois Agricultural Association; Prof. J. W. Lloyd, Department of Horticulture; G. L. Smith, president of the Illinois State Horticultural Society; John Allison, farm adviser, Calhoun county; and H. M. Newell, Division of Markets, Springfield.

ROSENKRANS IS LEADER OF SOIL PROGRAM GROUP

Committee Named at Amboy Meeting on Conservation

A community committee of farmers headed by Dale Rosenkrans as chairman was named to aid in administering the new soil conservation and domestic allotment program at a meeting held at Amboy, April 16th.

Members elected with Chairman Rosenkrans, of the committee are: Justin Becker, LaMoille, Vice Chairman; Leon Garrison, Dixon; W. E. Taylor, West Brooklyn; J. M. Keay, Amboy, Sec.-Treas.

The chairman of each community committee will serve on the permanent county committee. The new program will be administered by the community, county and state committees in cooperation with the AAA and the extension service of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

Duties of the county committee will include informing farmers of the agricultural practices necessary to qualify for payments under the new program and to examine information supplied by farmers of the county with respect to their farm. The community committee will aid in the county committee in this work and serve to establish direct contact between the county committee and the individual farmer.

Farm Adviser Chas. E. Yale and Dale Rosenkrans, members of the temporary county committee conducted the meeting.

Livingston county led all others with 89 new members followed by Will county with 77, Vermillion 70, Champaign 69, McLean 54, Ogle 48, Cook 44, McDonough 43, etc. Ford county led in percentage above quota (275 per cent) by signing 33 new members.

Farm Bureau Roll Increased 2037 Since January 1

County Farm Bureaus in Illinois signed 2037 new members during the first three months of 1936. George E. Metzger, field secretary of the Illinois Agricultural Association, reported to the IAA board of directors meeting in Chicago, April 17.

This number represents 94 per cent of the new member quota set for the first quarter, Metzger said.

3. Feed Good Feeds.

Taking care of the first two points is up to you. But the third point is where we can be of service to you!

We are specialists in the preparation of good feeds. We have taken advantage of every proven scientific development of the century.

The most outstanding is the addition of reinforced and extra vitamins to our mash. Not just one or two of them, but all six—they are Vitamins A, B, C, D, E, and G.

Ours is the only starting mash in this locality in which you will find all six vitamins in concentrated amounts—the amounts needed to produce fast growing chicks—with more uniformity and less culls—with better vitality and less disease. Our starting and our other mashes contain VITAMELK—the pioneer all-vitamin concentrate. Our feeds are backed with a more valuable guarantee than you can obtain from any other starting mash of any other line of feeds.

So we say LOOK TO THE FUTURE! Feed your chicks a vitaminized starting mash and build sturdier growth—earlier maturity and vitality to maintain high production without the usual breakdown leading to disease or moulting.

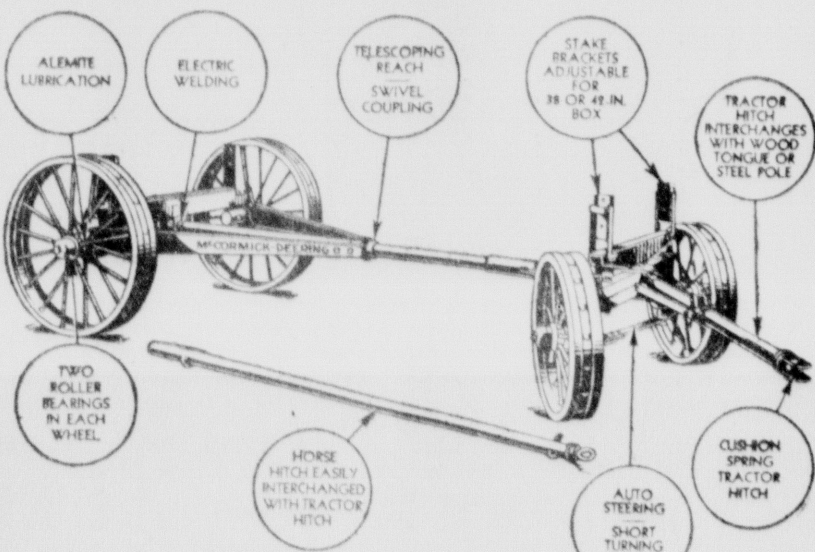

Drop in and let us tell you about our VITAMELK Starting Mash.

Rust is always at work—always destroying. That's why poor fence can't stand up. Rust soon weakens it. Red Brand Fence lasts years longer, because it stubbornly fights rust. ## LOUISVILLE DRESSED FOR DERBY WEEK

Flags, Banners Are Strung Across the Main Streets

Louisville, Ky., April 28.—(AP)—This blue grass metropolis today awaited the 62nd running of the Kentucky Derby.

Outwardly there was little to indicate that four days hence the pick of the three-year-olds would answer the bugle call at Churchill Downs for the country's greatest turf classic. There were no signs that upwards of 50,000 fans from every section of the country would pack the quarter-mile long grandstand from rafter to rafter.

Multi-colored banners, strung across the business streets, gaily dressed windows and the columns of the press quietly reminded one that this is Derby week. But there was no hysteria. To the visiting laymen, Louisville was taking this Derby in stride.

Underneath all this seemingly unexcited appearance, however, there was a restlessness, which, if it runs true to form, will burst loose with a roar Friday and Saturday, when the multitude, including thousands of Kentucky colonels and admirals, descend on the city. Some 17,000 colonels and admirals were restored to good standing yesterday by Acting Governor James E. Wise.

Hotel Clerks Are Worried.
Hotel clerks carried a worried look as they sought to find ways to crowd a few more into space, long since reserved. Transportation companies prepared to handle one of the largest crowds in the history of the classic. Business men beamed with delight at the prospect of increased revenue while scores of committees scurried here and there, making last minute preparations for the official opening of Derby week tomorrow night.

The Downs itself will not assume a festive atmosphere until the day before the race. Today its straggling hands, reaching from the head of the home stretch to the other end, were bare and forsaken except in spots where the few thousands gathered to watch several leading Derby candidates match strides in the one mile of "the trial." Only a comparatively few of the mutual windows were open and they were not overly busy. Saturday the man who wants to play his two dollars will have to fight his way through the mob.

Across the track in the green-painted barns, there was a different story. Here could be found activity as the horsemen, from the trainers down to the swipes, went about the task of preparing the three-year-olds for the big race.

New York, April 28.—(AP)—Quite a jump for old Ali Baba. . . . He borrowed Jack, the Giant Killer's seven league boots and hopped from the Arabian Nights right into the middle of the wrasslin' racket. . . . He's on first base now, but probably won't get to second without the aid of all the forty thieves. . . . The western grapevine has it Dick Shikat merely turned the title over to Ali for safe keeping until Dick beats that suit in Columbus. . . . Anyway, there were no Hallelujahs and Hosannas in eastern "trust" circles when Richard lost. . . . Even though he is the "trust's" public enemy No. 1 at the moment. . . . Instead, there was plenty of moaning. . . . You could hear the good Jack Curley all the way from Ohio. . . . Consensus: Shikat put over another fast one.

They'll spring Balthazar Sangh-cil, Spanish bantamweight, from Ellis Island today. . . . Villanova succeeds another Notre Dame man named Harry Stuhldreher. . . . Hunk Anderson of N. C. State and Gus Dorais of Detroit U. are among the better liked. . . . What do you think of Brevity now? . . . Guess you noticed in the Sunday papers that Tom Shaw, one of the biggest of the bookmakers, has sliced his odds on the colt to 8 to 5. . . . Incidentally, Jack Doyle, another No. 1 bookmaker, is accepting no more bets on Washington to win the American League pennant.

Dan M. Daniel, the World-Telegram's baseball expert, talked with Dolly Stark in Philadelphia and came up with a brand new angle on the original hold-out umpire's position. . . . Seems Charlie Rigler, who spent 29 years umpiring in the National League, left an estate of only $12,500 when he died last December. . . . Mebbe that was Charlie's fault. . . . But what Stark couldn't get over what that the only baseball man to attend Rigler's funeral was Dolly Stark. . . . Then and there Dolly began to think about his own future and you can't blame him. . . . Right now he's broadcasting the home games of the Athletics and Phillies. . . . Though he's new at the racket, he gets $300 per week, which is considerably more than the National League was willing to pay its tops umpire.

They couldn't pull the wool over the eyes of the San Diego newspapers. . . . They came right out and tagged the proposal to shift the Schmeling-Louis fight to the coast as a "cheap publicity stunt." . . . Said it did the town more harm than good. . . . Tom Sweeney says in the Worcester (Mass.) Gazette that those New York scribes who want to get Joe Di Maggio will not play 50 games for the Yanks this year can find plenty of takers in Worcester. . . . Ray Blades began a shake-up of the Rochester Red Wings by ordering several players to change room mates.

Col. Matt Winn, boss of the Kentucky Derby, visited New York recently and had dinner in Jack Dempsey's spot. . . . The Cunnel liked the way Bill Charlton, head barkeep, served 'em up and invited Bill to see the Derby. . . . Yesterday Bill got a letter enclosing railroad tickets, an order for hotel accommodations and clubhouse passes. . . . He'll be right there when the bugle blows Saturday.

Now they're calling the Red Sox the Yawkeybits. . . . Detroit fans are riding Mickey Cochrane. . . . A large part of the turf mob is converging on Pawtucket for the Narragansett opening Saturday. . . . More than 400 life-time passes to all major league ball parks have been sent to old ball players. . . . All Flatbush is raving about Ben Gerathy, former Villanova star, at Shortstop.

How those Oklahomans can grapple! Out of 23 available American titles this year, Oklahoma boys won 18. . . . They grabbed five of seven in the intercollegiate. . . . Seven of nine in the

INDIANS SHOW POWER, WORRY LOOP RIVALS

O'Neill's Team Has Scored Eight Out of Eleven Wins

By Andy Clarke

American league managers are scanning the record of the Cleveland Indians these days and finding therein little solace for the road that lies ahead.

The Indians currently are leading the pack with eight wins in 11 starts. However, it isn't the number of victories but the way they scored them that impresses the old hands of baseball campaigning.

Steve O'Neill, of the square jaw, and steady eye, has moulded a cohesive band of ball players who will fight you down the line until the last ball has been pitched and the last blow struck. The Indians have been thumping the horseshoe with vigor and their pitching gets better as the season moves along.

Comes Into His Own

George Blaeholder came into his own in his first start of the season yesterday when he held the St. Louis Browns to seven hits and won his game 2-1 but it was Bruce Campbell's homer in the seventh that provided the winning run.

It was the only game played in the American league, the only other major league contest being played in the National circuit where the Cincinnati Reds nosed out the Cubs, 5-4 in ten innings. Ernie Lombardi's double with two gone in the last of the tenth started the Reds on the road to victory. Tommy Thevenow met one of Lon Warneke's slants for a single and the game was over. Warneke went into the game in the sixth after Larry French had been taken out for a pinch hitter and until that tenth inning gave the rising Reds only two bingles.

Legislature Meets

April 21 IAA For Senate Bill No. 10

Treat every county and community alike in taxation for poor relief. Let every city and township, including Chicago, contribute its proportion for relief before it is entitled to ask for state aid.

This is the sentiment behind Senate Bill 10 which the Illinois Agricultural Association will press for final action when the legislature convenes at Springfield, April 21.

The bill would disallow any allocations of state relief funds to any county, city or township after Sept. 30 unless the taxing district has first levied an amount for poor relief which requires a 30 cent tax rate. The bill has passed both houses of the legislature but requires Senate concurrence in a House amendment before being referred to the Governor. The amendment follows the provisions of another bill restoring the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission merely as an agency to allocate state relief funds.

HOLE-IN-ONE GOLF ROSTER GROWING NOW

Nashville Leads All Cities In Ace Shots

New York, April 28.—(AP)—The Associated Press Hole-in-One club roster today showed Nashville, Tenn., leading all other cities in the nation in the race for one-shot golf honors.

Nashville, with four new members having been inducted this week, boasted its total to 12 to shade Dallas, Tex., by one member and thereby supplant that city at the head of the list. Fort Worth, Tex., has seven.

Texas was far in the lead as far as states go with 35 aces, with Tennessee second with 17 and Ohio third with 13.

Membership Is 170

The total membership of the club now has swelled to 170 with new entries pouring in steadily.

All four of the new Nashville entrants rode in on wood shots. Gordon Sawyer leading in the matter of distance with a 270-yard ace. Mrs. J. B. Alexander was second in distance, whaling one in from 225 yards, while Horace D. Box made his on the opening shot of his round. Billy Howe nailed one from 200 yards.

The club gained a new member from golf's upper crust as Mike Turnesa, professional of Elmsford, N. Y., sank his first shot on the 165 yard seventh at the Fairview Country club, Larry Snyder, Ohio State track coach, joined with a hole-in-one on the 148-yard second at Arlington in Columbus.

Mother, Daughter Die Within a Day

Chicago, April 28.—(AP)—Joint funeral services were planned today for a mother, 101, and her daughter, 77, who died within one day of each other. Mrs. Clara Whitaker Ryan, the daughter, died Saturday at their home. Her mother, Mrs. Abigail Richards Whitaker, died there Sunday. She had been unconscious several days and did not know of her daughter's death.

DAVIS CUP TEAM CAPTAIN UNABLE TO MAKE CHOICE

Players All Showing About Equal Skill in Performance

New York, April 28.—(AP)—Walter Pate, non-playing captain of the American Davis Cup tennis team, is so perplexed these days that it's difficult for him to call the right time of the day.

The topsy-turvy performances by members of the team which will go against Australia in the final North American zone series late in May almost have sent him to the showers.

"How can I know anything!" he pleaded today when asked about the prospective lineup of the team following the victorious first round series against Mexico and a tournament campaign through the south and southwest.

Four May Be Used

There's only one thing certain—three and possibly four players from among the squad named several weeks ago will be used in the attempt to hurdle Australia and land a berth in the inter-zone final at Wimbledon next July.

Wilmer Allison, the national champion, red-headed Don Budge and the pint-sized Bryan Grant are candidates for the singles assignment; Allison and Johnny Van Ryn and Budge and Gene Mako are battling it out for the doubles berth.

"They all look just 'so-so' although there's no denying Budge and Mako, with three straight victories over Allison and Van Ryn, look especially keen for the doubles assignment," said Pate.

"But," he continued, "it's not what has happened, it's what will happen after the players assemble at the Merion Cricket club May 11 for the final warm-ups that will count."

"Van Ryn is steadily recovering his touch and I think Allison will be at top form in another ten days."

NECKING

certainly by the time the team reports at Merion.

Had Long Talk

"Wilmer and I had a long talk before I left the boys at White Sulphur last week end. He told me that if he couldn't get in condition in time for the Australian matches, he would withdraw. However, I'm sure that won't happen. It would be a break for us if these matches were going to be played in midsummer because Allison normally is slow in rounding into shape."

Grant's defeat of Budge in the singles final of the Mason-Dixon tournament Sunday boosted the little Georgian's chances of getting into action against Jack Crawford and the other Aussies. But Allison as national champion, and Budge, for his creditable showing at Wimbledon last year, may crowd out the little fellow.

HARRIDGE SEES FIERCEST RACE AMERICAN LOOP

New York, Cleveland, Boston, Detroit All in Fight

Chicago, April 28.—(AP)—This year's American League pennant race, President William Harridge predicted today, "will produce more fireworks than any American league battle has in several years, with four and possibly five clubs involved in a hot fight for the championship."

"This looks like our year to supply the action," Harridge said, "It's been about 10 years since the league has had a good fight involving as many as four clubs."

"During the spring training season it was freely predicted that Detroit, Boston, New York and Cleveland had chances to win. I think those four clubs will remain in position where the loss of a single game as late as July may make big differences in the standings."

"And the Washington Senators are not to be sneezed at. If they continue to get good pitching the Senators are going to have something to say about who wins the flag."

In 1926 the American league race ended with just 51 percentage points separating the winner, New York, and the fourth place club, Washington. That year the Yankees, winning 91 games and losing 63 for a percentage of .591, nosed out Cleveland, with 88 won and 66 lost for a percentage of .571, Philadelphia had a percentage of .553 and Washington .540.

LONG ILLNESS OF KING FUAD OF EGYPT ENDS

Ruler Died at Early Hour
Today; Crown Prince Called

Cairo, Egypt, April 28.—(AP)—King Fuad I of Egypt, 68-year-old friend of the British, died today after a long illness.

The illness was aggravated over the week-end when a gangrenous condition developed in his throat, preventing him from taking nourishment.

Crown Prince Farouk, 16 years old and now attending school in England, will come to the throne under a regency until his 18th birthday.

The regency will be composed of three men whose names were written by King Fuad on a sheet of paper, then sealed in an envelope to be opened by the proper authorities.

Premier Ali Pasha Maher, in making the official announcement of his sovereign's passing, said death came at 1 P. M. local time (5 A. M. Central Standard time).

The news came as a shock to the population of Cairo following earlier reports that the monarch had rallied after a better night.

Only this morning, the king had called his premier and other officials to the palace and insisted on transacting state business, but the gravity of his condition was clear when plans were made for Crown Prince Farouk's departure from England tomorrow.

Fuad, who celebrated his 68th birthday anniversary March 26, had been in indifferent health many months. He had never fully recovered from his serious illness of 1934 when numerous foreign specialists were summoned to the summer palace at Montazah.

News Suppressed
At that time, palace sources endeavored to spread the report that the short, thick-set, fair-complexioned king was merely suffering from weakness following a mild attack of influenza.

It now is believed he then was a victim of a severe attack of pleurisy which weakened his heart. The troubled political situation in Cairo, including the revival of the Wafd party strength, leading up to recent street rioting, the interplay of British and Italian opinion, and the emphasis on military questions made it more difficult for the Egyptian monarch to throw off the lingering effects of his 1934 illness.

His death came at a time when Anglo-Egyptian relations had only recently progressed from the riot stage, caused by agitators, to peace negotiations for a treaty of alliance.

May Delay Treaty
To the extent which his death now creates a certain internal instability in Egypt, it is expected to have an adverse effect on the British and Egyptian relations and may delay negotiations.

The fact that Crown Prince Farouk is a minor, requiring a regency council until he comes of age on his 18th birthday, further complicates matters politically. Although Ahmed Fuad had won the title of Khedive of Egypt from 1917, he did not become king until 1922, when Great Britain relinquished its protectorate.

It was long years before problems of rule occupied him that he encountered the first attack on his throat. A brother-in-law, another Khedivial prince, fired a pistol at him in the fashionable Cairo native club one night in the 1890's and the bullet struck his throat.

His recovery was slow and imperfect, leaving a curious nervous reaction, half laugh and half cough, of the throat muscles.

Physicians have not linked the old wound with the fatal illness by more than coincidence.

ROCHELLE NEWS

BY ARTHUR T. GUEST
Rochelle—Business is definitely on the upturn in Rochelle with factories taking on labor, the Kennedy oat meal mill soon to open, the Rochelle Asparagus Co. new factory practically completed and increased activity apparent at the Whitcomb Locomotive Company.

The Whitcomb Locomotive Company is enjoying a growing increase in business with more orders on the books than the plant has enjoyed for several months. Wages in the shop have been increased 20 per cent, and skilled labor is in demand preference being given to experienced men previously on the pay roll.

After being idle for five years the former Kennedy rolled oats mill will be placed in operation within the next few days by its new owner, John Heue of Milwaukee. Mr. Heue is leasing the mill from the Morris Kennedy Property Trust, Lloyd E. Work and John R. Gray, trustees.

For the past month a crew of men has been engaged in cleaning up the plant which has deteriorated considerably during the period of idleness. A number of repairs have been made and the plant has been altered in many respects.

Work on remodeling is being rushed to completion under the careful supervision of Charles Clay, who is to be Mr. Heue's superintendent, and who was in charge of the installation of equipment in the mill thirty years ago. He

U. S. Students Parade Hate of War

Typical of student demonstrations held throughout the United States and abroad in observance of Peace Day, 3000 students of Northwestern and Chicago Universities walked out from their classes, as pictured above, to show their opposition to war. Throughout America, 400,000 college and high school students were estimated to have taken part in similar demonstrations, protesting against the Reserve Officers' Training Corps and military training; and demanding support of the Oxford pledge not to defend the United States in any war it undertakes.

has installed some of the largest mills in this country and in nearby countries. After a month's labor in renovating the plant, Mr. Clay will take charge of the mill's operation.

Mr. Heue, who has taken over the mill, has been connected with the Quaker Oats Company for ten years. The new owner of the mill will operate under the name of the Pilgrim Oats Company and he will pack his own brand, as the Kennedy mill did while in operation.

He is fully acquainted with all of the aspects of the processing and selling of rolled oats products and is planning to produce a product which will rival any of the companies in the rolled oats field.

Already there are a number of orders to be filled by the mill. Since announcement was made that the mill would reopen, there has been a deluge of workers inquiring for jobs. The exact number of persons who will be eventually employed has not been determined yet. Operations will be started with a skeleton crew. Later on, when the company operates its own packing plant and brings production up to capacity, more people will be employed.

The new canning factory of the Rochelle Asparagus Company is complete and ready for operation as soon as the crop is available. It is expected that the packing season will start in May. The completion of this plant gives Rochelle the distinction of having the largest canning plant in the United States devoted exclusively to the packing of green asparagus.

Two hundred and forty persons will be employed in the canning operation and a large force of several hundred men in the field harvesting the crop. The new plant has a floor space of 20,000 square feet and is the last word in scientific canning establishments. The old plant will be utilized as a warehouse.

Mrs. John Prindle, pioneer resident of Rochelle township, died at her home near Rochelle Sunday afternoon in her 78th year after an illness dating back to Thursday. The deceased was born in Clinton, Iowa on November 16, 1858 and grew to womanhood, secured her education and taught school in Clinton. She was united in marriage to John Prindle on November 24, 1881 and lived to celebrate her fifty-fifth wedding anniversary.

Surviving are three children: Mrs. Maude Wright, of Rochelle; Mrs. May Wright of Chicago, and a son, George William Prindle at home, also her bereaved husband and five grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 from the home and will be conducted by Rev. Frank A. Campbell, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Rochelle and internment will be made in Lawnridge cemetery.

Government Competition

By T. N. CARVER

Professor Emeritus, Harvard University

The T. V. A. decision makes it clear that the federal government can manufacture and sell electricity in competition with private competitors. It does not say that it must sell at a price which will cover the whole cost, including its share of the cost of government. That will be left to the discretion of the T. V. A. authority unless Congress acts.

It is not likely that the managers of any government enterprise will willingly charge as much as the product costs. That would invite private competitors to take business away from them. If they charge a fair price it will be because Congress requires it. The fight, therefore, must be transferred from the courts to Congress.

Private enterprise has nothing to fear from government competition so long as it is fair competition. If government will charge a price for its product which will really cover the cost of production, including its share of the overhead cost of the government, national, state and local, private enterprise can beat it in competition. That is, private enterprise can under-sell the government and still make a profit. By under-selling the government, it can take business away from the government.

But if the government uses its coercive power to suppress its competitors, it could, of course, monopolize a business, and not be driven out. That is not even competition, saying nothing about fair competition.

If a private enterprise cannot pay all its cost out of the price of its product, it soon goes out of business. Among its costs are its taxes to federal, state and local governments. If a government enterprise cannot pay all its costs, it can still stay in business, but it can do so only by taxing the people, including its own competitors, in order to make up its deficits. In that case, a part of the cost of production to private business is the taxes which have to be paid to keep its competitor, the government, in business.

Even though a Federal government enterprise actually pays as much into the federal treasury as private enterprises would have to pay, it is still unfair competition. The government enterprise should pay into state and local treasuries as much as private enterprises would have to pay. Again, even if a local government enterprise does pay into the local treasury a sum equal to what a private enterprise would have to pay, it is still unfair competition unless it also pays something into the federal and state treasuries.

While, of course, state and local governments cannot tax the federal government, some adjustment could be made whereby the federal government makes up to state and local governments what they lose by not being able to tax a private enterprise. At any rate, the correct strategy for private enterprises must be to fight for fair competition wherever any government goes into business.

Many American Citizens Living on Food for Dogs

Washington, April 28.—(AP)—Assailing what he termed the administration's doctrine of "scarcity," Senator Dickinson (R-Ia.) told the Senate Monday many Americans were "living on food unfit for even dogs to eat."

Pleading for enforcement of the pure food laws, Dickinson, in a lengthy prepared address, referred to President Roosevelt's statement in his Atlanta speech Nov. 28 last that the average American today was living on a "third class diet," because of lack of purchasing power to eat more and better food, and added:

"Destroying millions of hogs forced millions of people to go hungry, abandoning millions of acres of grain put prices for decent American out of reach for millions of decent American families!"

"As the logical, inevitable consequence of this deliberate and wicked waste, for the first time, we have Americans living on food unfit for even dogs to eat! And I mean that statement literally—food unfit even for dogs to eat!"

The Iowa declared the annual production of dog meat amounted to 500,000,000 cans annually with a retail value of $40,000,000.

He said the production has increased by leaps and bounds and could be attributed by agriculture department inspectors to only one thing—that it is being used for "human beings."

Kerr is staying at the hospital with her.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Anderson are visited by the latter's sister, Miss Bada Larson of Batavia.

J. R. Johnston of Peoria was a guest of Oregon friends over the week end.

Bill Thorpe left Saturday for Tucson, Ariz., where he will be admitted to the bar before the Supreme Court. He graduated from the law department of the State University at Tucson and successfully passed his examination last June. He expects to return in about two weeks.

Rev. and Mrs. G. E. Marsh were visited Saturday by the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Williams of Rochelle.

The Berean Society of the Church of God joined the Bereans of the local church in their Sunday evening service.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Butterbaugh and Mr. and Mrs. John Brader were visitors Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Peterson at Leaf River.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

LINDA BOURNE, 20 years old, pretty and socially prominent in the little town of Newtown, is left almost penniless after the sudden death of her father.

She becomes friendly with PETER GARDINER, political reporter, and shows him a scenario she has written. Peter gets Linda a job as society reporter.

DIX CARTER, with whom Linda is in love, tells her he is going abroad for a year to study singing. He says, "Will you wait for me?" and she answers, "I'll wait forever."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VI

LINDA never before spent a summer like that one. She was a working girl now, and there was no more traveling east to spend weeks house-partying on Long Island or the Cape with school friends.

Linda was a working-girl with limited time and limited money. The invitations came from the east, and Linda Jennings begged, pleaded and coaxed Linda to "quit that foolish job and come and have a good time."

But Linda was having a good time. And she didn't think her job foolish. She pored over the columns of news she turned out daily, worked anxiously with the paper's photographer and learned the thrill of a good job well done.

And she had fun. Fun with Pete Gardiner. One time they went to a carnival, and Pete proudly presented her with his trophies—a horrible wriggling doll, a cotton navajo blanket, two canes and a huge box of inedible candy.

Pete learned to play tennis. There was no servant to keep the Bourne courts in order, but Pete and Linda made a game of it. Pete taught Linda to swim and, laughing, sputtering, choking, she clung to him, not knowing that to touch her was a form of sweet agony for him.

HE didn't know about Dix, but he did know about Linda, and he told himself he "wasn't getting to first base." Lots of girls had made it clear to Pete how they felt about it and Linda showed none of the symptoms. But she spent almost all her free time with him.

There was the time that they went to a state fair and judged the hogs and jellies with impartial if inept judgment. There was the time they spent a day beside a small stream, talking all day of books and plays and Pete told her tales of newspaper tradition, but never that his heart beat faster at the sound of her footfall or that a shadow on her face was like a cloud passing over him.

Did Linda know? What woman wouldn't have known? She tried to pretend that it was not so, that Pete was her friend, that their association was to him what it was to her—a pleasant companionship. It was only when she spent those quiet, comforting evenings at home with Pete and his mother that confidence smote her and she felt she was being unfair to him. But she had so little, she depended on him for so much that she could not let him go. And, since he did not let her that he loved her, she couldn't say anything to let him know how she felt.

Pete told her tales of newspaper tradition . . . but never that his heart beat faster at the sound of her footfall or that a shadow on her face was like a cloud passing over his.

It didn't matter what else he said. He didn't intend to come back to Linda.

The letter Linda burned, but not before she knew every phrase by heart and every phrase weighed on her heart like stones that pressed into her and surged up into her throat, bringing the tears to her eyes.

She couldn't work. She had to work it out for herself, but she couldn't do it and keep her mind on her job. She asked for a vacation and got it. Then she got out her party clothes, like countless girls before her, and with a new wave, a determined smile and a heavy heart, set out to join Wilda at the Jennings' camp.

THERE were boys on the party and music and gaiety. It was like the good times that Linda used to have before Calvin Bourne killed himself, and that part of her life came to an end. Once more Linda had breakfast in bed and sat up far into the night, listening to gossip with Wilda.

The fortnight came to an end and she faced the future with no more hope than she had had when she ran away from herself and him.

NEW DEAL PLAN- NED ECONOMIES ARE ATTACKED

Speakers at Chamber of Commerce Meeting Play Policies

Washington, April 28 — (AP) — A plea for a cooperative alliance between business and government to cure the unemployment malady was made before the Chamber of Commerce of the United States today by its president, Harper Sibley.

Declaring that resources are at hand to put the jobs to work, he said the real question is whether, in attacking the problem, the "characteristically American principle of economic freedom is to be maintained" or is to be "circumscribed by government controls."

"Our ills are not to be cured by the flaying of business by the politician or condemnation of politics by the business man," he declared in a speech prepared for delivery today.

Another speaker, Lewis H. Brown, president of Johns-Manville Corp., suggested that the modern paradox of improving business and continuing large-scale unemployment was due to New Deal experimentation in what he called "planned economy" and an "economy of scarcity."

"Fake Premises" — Saying that government officials were demanding that industry "arbitrarily" absorb more unemployed, he attacked these demands as based on "false premises." The premises, he said, assume that "industry employs workmen when there is no work to be done" and that "industry has a source of income out of which to pay wages, other than the sale of goods to customers."

"Citing what he termed a need for 'confidence,' he urged that 'reforms' be postponed until after full recovery. He declared that business 'if given friendly encouragement,' can provide 'the only permanent, satisfying and American solution for the recovery and unemployment problems.'"

Roper Is Speaker. Secretary Roper today proposed a ten-point program through which he said business can absorb more of the jobless.

The administration spokesman addressed the convention of the chamber and his speech was regarded by his audience as bearing White House approval.

The commerce secretary said "business should utilize every possible channel of approach that will result in the most effective cooperation between business and government."

Roper's ten-point program: "1. Business should survey its own needs and its own conditions from the viewpoint of employing as many persons as current improvements and future programs demand."

"(The chamber announced yesterday it would survey the country to see how many jobs are available and how to fill them.)"

Should Pass Benefits. "2. As improvements in productive efficiency are secured, business should pass on to the consumer the benefits of the lower costs of production which result."

"3. Business should form and launch industrial committees to study in a comprehensive way technological unemployment and methods for speeding up the transfer into other fields of earning capacity of workers replaced by machines."

4. Business should stimulate the durable goods industries by early action that will provide for capital goods and machinery replacements due to obsolescence, depreciation, and other causes.

"5. Business should develop effective and wisely engineered home building programs, privately financed and managed and adapted to local needs, to foster better American home standards."

"6. Business should launch more aggressive endeavors to expand our foreign trade all along the line and especially in cooperation with the administration's reciprocal trade agreement program."

For Research Program. "7. Business should have a research program, conducted by industry and business, for the purpose of informing business on a long term useful public works plan looking to the coordination of proper national, state, local and private endeavors."

"8. Business should make intensive research study of the relationships that should be maintained with respect to production, wages, and hours of labor and the necessary methods and mechanics to be utilized in maintaining this balanced relationship."

"9. Business must recognize and apply its best endeavors to a fundamental educational program involving methods and efforts to get the states and subdivisions to re-assume their social responsibilities as soon as possible, to study economy in government and the prompting of self respect and mutual responsibility in the individuals and in the groups and organizations of our citizens."

"10. Business should utilize every possible channel of approach that will result in the most effective cooperation between business and government."

donnas "glorified" chorines, movie stars and comediennees.

The show is a hit riot, and promises to be tops in the entertainment field with its dancing choruses and feature numbers. Movie stars will be portrayed in one of the specialty groups, with Marlene Dietrich, Sally Rand, Greta Garbo and Mae West making "personal" appearances.

As a grand finale, a wedding act will be offered fully cast with bride and hen-pecked bridegroom, To Follow "Theme"

"Every girl a man and each one a lady" is the theme of the production, and Rae Arnold, chairman, in charge of the production for the Legion assures everyone that the "theme" will be carried out to the letter.

Rehearsals for the production have been completed and according to Homer A. Hott, who is directing the show, the "Glorified Girls" chorus went through their final rehearsal in a manner that would do credit to Ziegfeld. The chorus consists of twelve "dazzling damsels" of which each "girl is a man." Mr. Hott added that the "girls" were eagerly awaiting the outcome of the production in anticipation of offers from Broadway or Hollywood.

Special music has been arranged to add charm and feeling to the many scenes, all in keeping with the theme of the scenes.

Never before has such an array of celebrities, stars, prima donnas, and dancing "beauties" been assembled for any one production in Dixon. Heavy advance ticket sales were reported today and from all indications the theatre should be filled for both performances. The Leap Year Follies will be presented twice tonight at 7:15 and 9:15 o'clock. In addition to the stage show there will be a feature picture, "The Leathernecks Have Landed" starring Lew Ayres and Isabel Jewel.
